【 講師紹介/Lecturer Profile 】

■ ヨハン・フィッシャー Johan FISCHER

人類学者、ロスキレ大学（デンマーク）、社会グローバル化学部（国際開発学講座）准教授

2005年ロスキレ大学 Ph.D（国際開発学）取得。

1998－1999年コペンハーゲン大学人類学部講師、シンガポール国立大学招聘研究員、ロンドン大学ゴールドスミス・カレッジ招聘研究員などを歴任。2007年より現職。

著書：

The Halal Frontier, Macmillan, 2011、Proper Islamic Consumption, Nordic Institute of Asian Studies, 2009 ほか

論文：

Fischer, Johan “Branding halal: A photographic essay on global Muslim markets,” Anthropology Today, Vol. 28, No. 4, 2012 ほか多数

Johan Fischer’s regional specialization is Southeast Asia and Europe. Thematically, my specialization is on religion; religious revivalism; consumer/material culture in a religious perspective; middle class; the transformation of modern forms of capitalism; food cultures; cultural globalization and migration.

After completing my master’s degree in 1997 I taught in the Department of Anthropology, University of Copenhagen, from 1998 to 1999. In 2000 I started my PhD training at International Development Studies (IDS), RUC. I have been a Visiting Research Fellow at both the National University of Singapore and Goldsmiths College, University of London. In my current position as Associate Professor at IDS I am also teaching at Social Science Basic Studies and Global Studies. In 2007, I completed the professional postgraduate teacher training courses in project supervision and course teaching [adjunct pædagogikum] at RUC. Since my first experiences with fieldwork-based research in 1994,

I have conducted fieldwork for a period of over three years in Africa (South Africa) and Europe (Britain) and Asia (India, Malaysia and Singapore). In connection with periods of fieldwork I have been attached to universities in Malaysia, Britain and Singapore.

I am the author of PROPER ISLAMIC CONSUMPTION: SHOPPING AMONG THE MALAYS IN MODERN MALAYSIA (NIAS Press 2008) and THE HALAL FRONTIER: MUSLIM CONSUMERS IN A GLOBALIZED MARKET (Palgrave Macmillan 2011) as well as numerous articles and chapters in edited volumes.

Currently, I am working on a book with the provisional title GLOBAL HALAL ZONES: ISLAM, STATES AND MARKETS.
